Distinct Aura Color Meanings

RED: These people are the most enthusiastic and energetic individuals who are always ready for a new adventure.

- They may be impulsive and fast, they want to try everything and taste everything. However, their dangerous approach may put them in unpleasant and dangerous situations.
- Red Aura people are also quick to anger and have a tiny temper. On the other hand, they are mostly intelligent, self-confident and brave.
- Red Aura people are risk-takers and they adapt fast, so they are very successful professionally and, also, can become extremely wealthy.
- The worst side of the Red Aura people is their constant deficit of attention. They want and need to always be on top and/or the center of the universe.

ORANGE-RED: One of the most common shades of orange believed to be present in a person's aura is orange-red.

- Red is typically seen as a powerful, confident form of energy.
- It symbolizes passion, strength, and vitality, and those who are strong leaders are thought to project an orange-red aura.
- When combined with an orange aura, some people think shades of orange-red represent someone who is particularly confident, or a person with an orange aura who has great personal power.

ORANGE-YELLOW: When present in a person's aura, the color yellow is believed to be associated with life energy and inspiration, intelligence and optimism.

- People who are on a spiritual journey or pursuing a higher purpose or calling are often believed to have orange-yellow auras. An orange-yellow aura is also thought to surround someone who is intelligent, detail-oriented, scientific, and perhaps a bit of a perfectionist.

BURNT ORANGE: A burnt orange aura is thought to indicate that a person is dealing with their ambitions, or that they may be in need of change.

- It is believed that the more brown is present in the hue, the more negative energy the person may be holding onto.
- Burnt or muddy orange is also indicates a lack of energy or general laziness.

YELLOW: People with dominant yellow aura are analytical, intelligent and logical people. They are not careless, but very cautious.

- They over calculate everything and most of them are workaholics who are strongly focused on their material world.
- Yellow aura people are not the ‘relationship’ type of people, but at the same time, they are very resistant to stress, depression, anxiety etc. They have a strong mental profile.
- They are happy with their own and extremely self-sufficient. Unlike the others, they enjoy loneliness and at the same time, they are great communicators and know how to socialize.
- However, their socialization is seen as an obligation, not need. They don’t make friends easily, and if they do, their friends are also people with yellow aura- intelligent and hardworking.
- Intense self-criticism and perfectionism is also common for yellow aura people.

GREEN: This shade represents feelings of love and being content. Those displaying this shade will see the positive side of every situation.

- When they meet a new person they will always give them the benefit of the doubt, regardless of what rumors may have been circling beforehand. They are very charitable individuals but most of all, they are happy with what they have in life.
- They don’t need fancy cars or massive houses; they just need close friends and family. On that note, you will typically find that these individuals are minimalist.
- They won’t buy a new pair of shoes unless their old ones are completely unwearable, they won’t get the bus to work if walking is an option, and they won’t splash out on expensive food just for the convenience of not having to cook

- .All in all, these people can get by with very little and yet they'll still have a smile across their faces. There is very little that can bring the energy levels of such a person down
- In order to reach this shade of green, you have to nurture these positive emotions within yourself. Find what makes you feel happy and do it. If you enjoy going to the cinema then go see a new movie or two LIGHT BLUE: Having a predominant blue Aura or energy field surrounding you can point to a number of personality traits. Totally blue Auras are quite rare but can show up as one of the boldest Aura colors in people with strong personalities.

- Blue Aura people are the master communicators of the world. They have the ability to convey their thoughts, ideas, views, and concepts eloquently and charismatically. They make for excellent writers, poets, and politicians.
- Blue Aura people are also highly intelligent and very intuitive. They certainly have their head and heart balanced in making difficult decisions and choices. They are incredibly good organizers and can motivate and inspire others.

INDIGO: Intuitive. Honest. Mysterious. These are the words typically associated with people who are said to project ethoslife.com/loginindigo aura. They are beings believed to bring a new energy to the world.

- They come with messages and lessons for the rest of us to learn from.
- They may come across as something of ethoslife.com/loginenigma to those around them. However, they don't feel the same way about others. Highly sensitive people often manifest this color.
- The insight of this color lends itself to confidence and self-assurance in those who connect with it. Some people believe that people with an indigo aura have lived a past life and therefore have more experience and knowledge of the world. “Indigo children” are thought to be young people with highly attuned psychic abilities who are bringing new energy into the world. They are believed to have the purpose of spreading peace and harmony to the people around them.
- In love and relationships, people with an indigo aura are thought to be extremely intelligent, moral and open-minded. They are said to care little about a person's past or their gender or sexual identity, as long as their partner is open to sharing new experiences with them. Unlike other aura colors, the intelligence and confidence of indigos does not manifest as brash decision-making. Rather, it's an assurance that they can take their time making the right decision.

- Friends and companions of indigos would do well to heed their friend's advice, as indigos have a keen intuition that can't be matched. Although indigos do make great leaders, in the workplace they often go against the grain. They dislike having to lead others and simply won't follow orders that go against their own moral compass.

PURPLE: Manifests in visionaries with great leadership potential. These people often stick out from the crowd due to their intense intuition.

- The sensitivity that is believed to be connected to purple auras can be seen as both a blessing and a curse. People with this color aura may find themselves privy to the secret thoughts and feelings of others for better or for worse. This could manifest as someone who is drawn to other people, wanting to help them during times of distress or pain. However, it can also lead individuals to isolate themselves from others. In these cases, they may be attempting to protect their own well-being and avoid feeling the anguish of those around them.
- People with purple auras find various ways of dealing with their increased awareness. Spending time in nature is a popular one. Calming, organic surroundings help these people find solace and relax. Meditating on the slow-growing life around them and the lack of drama or pain makes natural environments a place of peace.

DARK PURPLE: Like the dark purple of a storm cloud, a dark purple aura is sometimes connected with negative energy.

- This ominous hue represents a struggle or obstacle a person needs to overcome.
- People who are fearful about their past or future, or disconnected from their spirituality, may project this color.
- The way forward with this color is to find balance. People with a purple aura of this shade may find solace in meditation and personal reflection.

LIGHT PURPLE/LAVENDAR: The exact opposite of a dark purple aura. This shade carries with it connotations of being a dreamer.

- It signifies someone with an active imagination and a rich inner life.

- Radiates positive energy and represents someone who is deeply connected to higher planes of existence.
- They may be a little immature due to their constant daydreaming.
- This color is generally thought to be a happy one.

VIOLET: Perhaps the truest purple, a violet aura is sometimes associated with the crown chakra.

- Deeply spiritual, this shade may be found in religious leaders, artists, psychics and people who have studied spirituality or are truly in touch with their emotions.
- Have usually spent years or decades on their chosen path.
- They don't live their purpose because it is easy or will bring them acclaim, but because it feels right.

GOLD: These people have an extraordinary sense of aesthetics, they love beauty and have a very artistic flair.

- You could call them hedonists- they really love the finer things in life and like to adorn themselves and their surroundings with beauty, class, and extravagance.
- They also want to be the center of attention and they are very good at it. They know how to entertain social groups and how to affect admiration from other people.

WHITE/SILVER: These people who have special gifts. They will use their gifts through their lifepath to grow as a person. They are very wise and they truly learn life lessons.

- Silver Aura people are sensitive, intuitive and they even have some psychic abilities. These people have the strongest spirit and the biggest potential to reach spiritual divinity and find 'The Tru+th'.
- People with predominant silver/white aura are always seen as very attractive. They attract people and admirers, but sometimes this could be an issue because silver/white aura people don't want to be the center of attention.
- They don't really care about reputation, nor are they proud or egoist. Silver Aura people are also considered to be very lucky.

BROWN: Suggests something wrong with their personality. Indicates confusion, discouragement, lack of confidence and fear.

- Dark brown indicates selfishness, egoism, and a tendency toward deception.

BLACK: This is the aura of hatred, negativity, depression, major illness or a dark entity attachment. This color is a really bad sign.

Aura Color Reading and Interpretation Service:

I've been seeing auras for over 45 years. As a Reiki Master Healer, I've worked a great deal with people's energy fields. I'm now offering this new service because I think people will find it helpful. Half Hour Zoom Session is recorded for the client's convenience and sometimes includes messages from Spirit Guides. I read the 7th layer (Ketheric Template) which contains one's entire soul history. The color of this layer is also indicative of what one's main gifts and challenges may be. I also read the overall color and provide an emailed report. No two Aura Readings are the same. The colors and how they uniquely blend determines one's energetic alignment.

There is an Emailed option and the turnaround time for those is 10-30 days. All I need is a picture of your whole body with no one else in the picture. It's best to have a light colored wall in the background.
